

Compensation

What to do if you think you are entitled to compensation

Compensation

Unity is committed to providing a high quality service. However, sometimes things go wrong and customers feel that they are entitled to compensation.

How to claim

You can claim compensation in the following ways:

- Fill in the form on this leaflet
- Write to our Complaints Manager
- Email us at uha@unity.co.uk
- You can ask someone else to write a letter for you, or ask our staff to fill in a compensation claim form

Make sure that you send us as much information as you can, with photos of any damage, copies of receipts and full details of times and dates.

What happens next

We will acknowledge your claim for compensation within two working days and look at the information that you have given us. If we need to visit you, we will contact you to arrange an appointment. We aim to deal with straight-forward compensation claims within 10 working days, as long as you have given us all the information we need. It can take longer to deal with a complicated claim. We may refer your compensation claim to our insurers, who will then deal with you direct.

What can I claim compensation for?

You could be entitled to compensation in the following circumstances:

- We didn't complete a repair within our target time, which meant you had extra expenses.
- You couldn't use part of your home or something in it (e.g. your heating) for an unreasonably long time.
- Your possessions were damaged or someone was injured because Unity didn't do something we were supposed to.
- If our contractors missed two appointments in a row.

What if I disagree with Unity's decision?

You have the right to make a complaint. The other side of this leaflet explains how. You can also get advice from the Citizen's Advice Bureau or from a solicitor. Remember that legal fees will reduce any compensation that you may be awarded.
